Introducing Tasica Workflow Government Applications

Government agencies consistently work hard to improve the condition of living for their citizens. All levels of government agencies, however, face limited budgets. In order to continue to support their growing numbers of citizens and stakeholders they need to advance their electronic working environment with less paper, fewer administrative delays, and fewer redundant work tasks. Tasica Workflow solutions can improve governmental processes with highly secure and accurate solutions for electronic automation of paper forms, manual workflow and real-time reporting.

Government-Specific Workflow Applications

Alphalogix provides a variety of government-specific applications that integrate seamlessly with most current infrastructures including databases, directories, web services and portal environments.
